

Guidelines for Chairs of Poster Discussion Sessions

GOALS

1. To foster and encourage public discussion and debate of important scientific and clinical questions relevant to the major themes conducted in the poster sessions.
2. To offer specific feedback to the authors concerning their data and its interpretation.

FORMAT

- Poster presentations of abstracts closely related in theme
- Session duration: 2 hours
- Begin with the viewing period: authors are present at their posters for discussion with the audience on a one-on-one or small group basis
- Follow with a formal discussion period of the theme moderated by the session chairs

PREPARATION BEFORE THE CONFERENCE

In most instances, three Chairs are assigned to each Poster Discussion Session: two senior professors and one junior professional.

The abstracts to be presented in the Poster Discussion will be sent to the Chairs prior to the Conference. The Chairs should review all abstracts and identify some common points among the abstracts.

It is critical to the success of the Poster Discussion Session that the chairs communicate with each other at least once by email or by phone to discuss the approach they will take during the poster discussion.

Suggestions:

- The Chairs should communicate with the authors presenting in the Poster Discussion Session prior to the Conference to get a sense of the research to be presented in order to organize a more productive discussion.
- Three or four major questions to be addressed at the discussion portion of the session should be identified. The questions should not be directly aimed at the specific data presented in the individual posters, but should focus on the overall topic of the session. A certain amount of time should be assigned to each topic prior to the session in order to ensure that all topics will be discussed. Where possible, newer investigations in the field should be included.
- The abstracts may be divided among the Chairs and the Chairs should visit each poster assigned during the viewing period. These assignments should be made by the Lead Chair prior to the session
- It might also be helpful to contact colleagues who have an expertise in the topic being addressed and ask that they attend both the poster viewing and the poster discussion with the intent of participation.

Guidelines for Chairs of Poster Discussion Sessions

DURING THE DISCUSSION PERIOD

The room will be set up with the focus of the session toward the center of the room so everyone will feel welcome to participate. Wireless microphones will be available to pass among the audience during the discussion.

Chairs should proceed with the discussion period as follows:

1. briefly outline how the Discussion section will proceed
2. Start by asking simple open-ended questions on a larger issue with the idea of stimulating interaction between the presenters and the audience.
 - These questions should be directed towards a common theme among a sub-group of posters and not to a specific presenter.
 - The chairs will need to be creative as the success of a poster discussion depends highly on asking questions that stimulate discussion or raise controversies.
 - Preparing by reading the abstracts and interacting between co-chairs before the meeting will help a great deal with formulating great questions.
3. It is important to remember that the details of individual posters should not be discussed; just how they relate to the broader question.
 - The introduction to the first question should be brief and the discussion opened rapidly to the larger group.
4. Be aware when one of the questions under discussion has run its course
 - Be ready to move on to the next question.
 - The new question should also be introduced by a few minutes of remarks with reference to broad poster data.
5. Chairs should be prepared to:
 - Ask specific people in the audience their opinion on specific points.
 - Direct specific questions to the poster presenters regarding their data in the context of the major questions being addressed at the session.
6. Chairs must allow all those who wish to participate in the discussion time to participate and ask their questions.
7. Chairs should feel free to interrupt any speaker who is occupying a disproportionate amount of time relative to the point being made.
8. At the end of the discussion period, one of the chairs should provide a brief summary.

WHAT NOT TO DO AT A POSTER DISCUSSION SESSION

- Do not monopolize the discussion. The audience should do this.
- Do not review the data of individual posters in any detail. Data from the posters are important to the discussion, but should be addressed only as they relate to the larger questions that are raised.
- Do not invite each poster author to the microphone to give remarks about his/her poster.
- Do not isolate the discussion among a small group of participants. The larger audience should be drawn into the discussion.
